Highway Inspection Is by Plane

By JOHN R. STARR
HARRISON, Ark. (AP) — The Highway Department brought its information aircraft into Harrison today and was greeted with a request for relocation of highway 7.

Jake Jacobson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said the highway should be rerouted to avoid the downtown area.

Ten planes are flying about 50 highway department and state officials, consumption industry executives and representatives of the federal Bureau of Public Roads and news media on a two-day air tour of the state.

Stops were made Monday at El Dorado, Hot Springs and Fort Smith. Stops were scheduled today at Blytheville and Jonesboro.

Donald Roney, Harrison Urban Renewal Director, told department officials that relocation of Highway 7 was important to Harrison's urban renewal project.

Roney said the city would provide right-of-way, pay for moving

27 Americans Dead in Naval Plane Crash

EBERSBURG, Germany (AP) — A four-engine U.S. Navy plane on a secret mission exploded, crashed and burned today, killing all 27 persons aboard.

U.S. authorities at the scene, scene said at least 20 bodies were recovered. A spokesman at Atlantic Fleet Air Force headquarters at Norfolk, Va., said there were 27 and disclosed the classified nature of the flight. An Air Force spokesman in Germany had said the plane was on a routine training flight.

A U.S. Army spokesman in Munich said at least 20 bodies were stellation, was believed to have blown up in the air because the tail section was found several miles from the main wreckage.

The plane was based in Rota, Spain, and had flown to Frankfurt. It was out on a flight from Frankfurt but had planned to return there before taking off for Spain.

The plane plummeted in an open field near this south Bavarian town.

Many Germans reported hearing a loud explosion. Several Germans said they saw the big plane roll over in the air several times before crashing.

First to reach the scene was the mayor of Markt Schwaben. He said he and other would-be rescuers were unable to get close to the plane because of the flames. German fire fighters finally brought the fire under control.

Roads leading into this rural area were jammed by long lines of automobiles, attracted by the explosion and blaze.

The U.S. Air Force European headquarters at Wiesbaden identified the plane as a Navy transport flying between Rota, Spain, and Frankfurt.

An alarm brought 14 German fire engines to the scene 10 miles away.

Medical Care Plan Called 'Cruel Hoax'

By PIERCE LEHMBECK
NEW YORK (AP)—The American Medical Association has countered President Kennedy's plea for support of his medical care for the aged plan with an attack on the measure as a cruel hoax that would "heartlessly ignore millions" who need coverage.

In a paid, nationally televised reply to the President, association leaders said Monday night the public is in danger of being "blitzed, brainwashed into swallowing" a plan that would disrupt health services and turn patients into impersonal numbers.

The Kennedy-backed King-Anderson measure provides for medical care for the aged under Social Security.

Following the AMA telecast, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Abraham Ribicoff declared that it was "just another staging of 'let's fool the American people again'" and charged that it omitted important factors.

The AMA representatives spoke from Madison Square Garden, the same spot from which Kennedy urged support of the King-Anderson measure a day earlier in a free-time public service national telecast.

But whereas Kennedy spoke before a live audience of 17,500, the two AMA spokesmen sat alone in the vast arena—an arrangement that they said "may help us get across to the American people the grossly unfair disadvantage under which we doctors are laboring to make our voices and our reasons heard."

A Boston station, WBZ-TV, refused to carry the program. This brought a complaint from the association that it had been

5th Delay of Space Shot Is Probable

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Twin threats of weather and forest fire smoke dissolved today and Project Mercury officials were optimistic that astronaut, Malcolm Scott Carpenter could be launched on his orbital flight Thursday.

Weather experts said smoky haze from two widely scattered fires was not settling in this area as feared Monday. They said there probably will be some haze in the launching area Thursday but it should not interfere with camera tracking of the Atlas booster rocket.

The fires are in the Everglades, south of Cape Canaveral, and in a marsh 15 miles to the west. The latter was reported only smoldering today.

Possibility of heavy clouds above the Cape on Thursday apparently vanished overnight when a storm front in the Midwest shifted direction to the north-northeast. The storm earlier was pushing the clouds toward Florida.

There was a possibility of winds and waves in the Atlantic recovery areas, but officials believe conditions will be acceptable on Thursday.

Technical problems, which have forced four postponements, were reported smoothed. Project Mercury officials said the Atlas and capsule are ready to carry the 37 year old Navy lieutenant commander on his intended three orbit mission.

U.S. to Remove All Grain Stored in the Warehouses of Estes

Government to Call About 100 Witnesses

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate investigations subcommittee will question at least 100 witnesses from both Kennedy and Eisenhower administrations in exploring the dealings of Billie Sol Estes, informed sources said today.

The subcommittee plans a public airing into allegations that influence in Washington helped the indicted financier build his vast cotton and grain storage empire. Estes is awaiting trial on fraud charges and has declared himself bankrupt.

The subcommittee plunged into closed sessions Monday to question witnesses in preparation for the public hearings which Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said may be televised.

It quizzed two witnesses for 4½ hours in McClellan's office.

One was N. Battle Hales, an Agriculture Department employee who contends he can prove Estes received favored treatment from department officials.

The other was Walter C. Berger, an Agriculture Department official under the Eisenhower administration. Berger subsequently became a director of the Commercial Solvents Corp. of New York and dealt with Estes on multimillion dollar liquid fertilizer contracts which are under scrutiny in the inquiry.

Estes became, by cutrate sales, one of the nation's biggest dealers in anhydrous ammonia fertilizer, which he got from Commercial Solvents. To pay the company, he assigned to it the payments he received for storing government grain.

McClellan refused to give an inkling of what the two men had told the subcommittee. He said both were cooperative, had answered every question put to them, and were questioned separately.

McClellan said no significance should be drawn from the identity of the first two witnesses.

We had to start somewhere," he said.

Arkla Wants Time in Rate Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. asked the Arkansas Supreme Court today for a six weeks extension for filing supplemental briefs in a suit contesting its $1.2 million a year rate increase granted by the Public Service Commission last year.

The cities of El Dorado and Pine Bluff initiated a suit against the increase. The PSC affirmed its ruling and Pulaski Circuit Court upheld the decision.

Arkla said today that the case cannot be considered by the Supreme Court before it adjourns for the summer June 4, and that the requested extension would not delay the final decision in the matter.

The briefs are due June 14.

Figures Plan Will Cost Some $2 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said today it will move some 42 million bushels of grain out of elevators and warehouses owned or connected with Billie Sol Estes, Texas financier now under indictment for fraud.

George A. Barnes, an assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, said the grain will be moved to other locations in an orderly manner over the next 18 months.

Barnes told a news conference that a crash program of moving the grain would cost some $2 million.

However, he said, the way in which it is to be done will not cost the government anything additional.

Asked why the grain should be moved, Barnes said it was a matter of public policy.

When asked to clarify his statement, Barnes replied: "There are a lot of considerations which have to be taken into account on public policy. The secretary of agriculture exercises administrative judgments on matters of this kind. After looking over all that is involved, the decision was made that the best interests of the department would be served by moving this grain out in an orderly manner."

Try to Link Man's Body to Estes Case

FRANKLIN, Tex. (AP)—County grand jurors called more witnesses today while experts planned to study the body of an Agriculture Department official linked to the Billie Sol Estes case.

Dist. Judge John Barron Monday ordered the disinterment of Henry H. Marshall, 52, whose death from five bullet wounds last June 3 was officially pronounced suicide.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman said two weeks ago that secrets in the operations of Estes, West Texas farm tycoon indicted for fraud and theft, died with Marshall.

Marshall was chief administrator and investigator in Texas for the government's cotton allotment program. He had been looking into Estes' cotton allotments.

Dist. Atty. Bryan Russ had invited Freeman to appear before the grand jury here if the secretary had any new evidence. Freeman, in a telegram, advised county officials "We know of none here who may have any firsthand knowledge. We are continuing to check and if any names (are) found will advise you, as we want you to have our full cooperation in this matter."

Marshall was found dead on his farm near here. He had been shot with a bolt-action rifle. Justice of the Peace Lee Palmer returned an inquest verdict of suicide.

A few hours after the grand jury reopened the investigation Judge Barron ordered the disinterment. He said he acted at the request of Russ and with the consent of Marshall's widow.

A state chemist, a ballistics expert and a pathologist were to examine the remains.

The district attorney said new evidence obtained by the grand jury prompted the autopsy. He gave no details.

Judge Barron said that through the autopsy "we can determine whether this is murder or not."

Sewage Fees Set Up by City Board

With the beginning of a $210,000 sewer project in Hope the City Board of Directors last night passed a resolution putting into effect new sewage rates for the entire city.

To pay for the project the Board revised sewage fees to $1.50 per month for residences and $2 per month to commercial houses. Practically all the old major sewage system in the city, is slated for completion next fall.

The group heard a plea from Negro residents of the Oaklawn area for repair on streets. A committee presented petitions to the Directors asking immediate action. The committee also asked that old houses in the area be condemned and torn down.

The Board authorized the City Manager and Street Commissioner to make an immediate survey of the streets in Oaklawn addition and make repairs when possible. The matter of old buildings being condemned was turned over to the Fire Chief for inspection.

James McLarty was recommended for appointment to the Planning Commission replacing Al Page who resigned. A request to rebuild Ratcliff's Store at Main and 16th was turned over to the planning commission.

Bid on New Lake
PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — State Game and Fish Commission said Monday it is advertising for bids on a 515-acre recreational lake for Pine Bluff. Bids will be opened June 12. A drive seeking such a lake was begun in 1956 and $33,000 was subsequently raised to buy the site and clear the area. Cost of the project is estimated at $150,000.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus is telling delegations which greet the "tourists" at each stop that he feels the air tour will serve two main purposes.

Two commissioners — Truman Baker of Searcy and Wayne Hampton of Stuttgart—are making the trip.

At each stop, highway director F. R. Oliver is reviewing work done by the highway department in the area and statewide.

Oliver said Arkansas now ranks second among the states in use of available federal funds for highway construction.

Oliver introduced himself at Fort Smith last night as the "guardian of the Mack-Blackwell Amendment" and said he has had no trouble during his tenure as director in preserving the spirit of the amendment, which was intended to take the department out of politics.

clear of political topics. However, he said at Fort Smith, after reviewing progress in highway construction during the past decade, "I hope we can continue this progress in Arkansas."

He made no other reference to his campaign for a fifth term.

The Harrison delegation took the tourists on a motorcade through the downtown area, which was devastated by a flood May 7, 1961. Several of the travelers expressed amazement at the recovery Harrison has made.

The Fort Smith Chamber of Commerce greeted the contingent and entertained at a dinner on Packard Point, a mountaintop overlooking the city from across the Arkansas River in Oklahoma.

Ten planes are carrying some 60 representatives of the state, the construction industry, travel associations, the Federal Bureau of Public Roads and news media on the tour.

The first stop Monday was El Dorado and groups from Magnolia, Camden, Smackover and Jonesboro, were on hand to "greet" the tourists.

At the second stop in Hot Springs members of the state Highway Commission making the trip received a petition bearing 1,081 signatures seeking improvement along a 10-mile road leading to a fish hatchery.

Among those making the trip is Gov. Orval E. Faubus who said in Fort Smith Monday night he hopes "this program of progress" can be continued in Arkansas.

This was the closest the governor came to making a political remark on the tour. Faubus is seeking a fifth term as governor.

At each stop along the route, Highway Director F. R. Oliver reviews various projects completed by the department in the area.

The department furnished one of the planes while the remaining nine were furnished by private concerns, most of which do business with the department.

Stops today included Fayetteville, Harrison, Blytheville and Jonesboro, with the tour ending tonight.

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—Ten airplanes carrying state officials and construction industry leaders landed here today on the first stop of a two-day tour of the state highway system.

The Highway Department is conducting the tour in recognition of National Highway Week.

About 60 persons disembarked to be greeted by city officials from half a dozen south Arkansas municipalities.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who is representing the executive department on the tour, said he felt it would help provide a better picture of what the Highway Department is doing.

"This tour will bring the Commission and personnel of the Highway Department closer to the people in these important areas," Faubus said. "It also will make people who take the tour and others through publicity more familiar with the state highway program."

Greeting the "tourists" were El Dorado Mayor Roy Goudy, Mayor John Harsh of Magnolia, City Manager George Lewis of Camden, Carl Horne, president of the Smackover Chamber of Commerce and Carlton Hansen, manager of the Crossett Chamber of Commerce.

The flying delegation included members of the Highway Commission, top officials of the Highway Department, construction industry representatives and newsmen.

Other stops today will be at Hot Springs, and Fort Smith.

Tuesday the group will visit Fayetteville, Harrison, Blytheville and Jonesboro.

One of the planes used on the tour belongs to the Highway Department. Most of the others belong to firms which do business with the Department.

east of Munich close to the village of Markt Schwaben.

Mathias Wolf, who works in the community hall at Markt Schwaben, gave this eyewitness account of the crash:

"The plane crashed from an altitude of about 9,000 feet out of a completely clear sky. It was not yet on fire while in the air. The plane rolled over several times in the air and then crashed a couple of hundred yards from our village. There was an explosion as if an atomic bomb had dropped."

Census figures reveal that seven of every 10 Americans were living in the state in which they were born in 1960.

The station said that its decision was based on a policy of not selling time "to organizations or individuals for discussion of controversial issues in which such organizations or individuals are involved."

Dr. Edward R. Annis of Miami, Fla., the main AMA speaker, said the relationship between a doctor and his patient is one of the few things "which touch so close to God." He urged viewers to consult their doctors about the measure.

"Our fees are not involved," he declared. "Our practice of quality medicine is. Your health is."

Annis, chairman of the AMA's National Speakers Bureau, said the administration-backed plan "wastefully covers millions who do not need it" and ignores millions who do.

"It will undercut and destroy the wholesome growth of private, voluntary insurance and prepayment health programs for the aged which offer flexible benefits in the full range of individual needs," Annis said.

"It will lower the quality and availability of hospital services throughout our country. It will stand between the patient and his doctor. And it will serve as the forerunner of a different system of medicine for all Americans."

"Don't mistake it," Annis declared. "England's nationalized

Says GOPs in Intellectual Bankruptcy

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey said today the Republicans are in a state of intellectual bankruptcy, while the Democrats have good issues and a real record of accomplishment to take to the voters.

Bailey opened a campaign conference for Democratic women with an attack on both Republican conservatives and liberals.

He told the estimated 3,000 delegates in a prepared speech that Republicans are floundering in search of issues as the Democrats display an energetic administration trying to make the United States a better country in a better world.

Today's sessions were to be given over to briefings of the delegates by a score of officials on administration policies and programs and a dinner tonight to be addressed by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

Bailey contrasted the Democratic women's meeting with a similar one held by Republican women here last month. He said the Republican meetings were basically negative, but the Democratic program concerns itself with the "present and the future—not with the dead and dying past."

Then Bailey turned to the men in the opposition party. He said present Republican leaders are edging closer "to the Birchite type right-wing fanatics in their attacks upon the President and the Democratic party."

He said Republican National Chairman William E. Miller recently addressed a conference of right-wing groups here and "made a speech that would have been perfectly appropriate for a Birch Society rally."

What about the "self-proclaimed liberals in the Republican party?" Bailey asked. He answered by saying Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., seeks identification as a non-Old Guard Republican, yet Sen. Barry Goldwater, a conservative leader, made a "rip-snorting Old Guard" speech at a fund-raising dinner for Morton.

Walt W. Rostow, counselor of the State Department and chairman of the department's policy planning council, told the women the situation in South Viet Nam is now much more hopeful than it was six months ago.

He said in his prepared speech that the United States has made progress in bringing the Communist guerrilla war against the Southeast Asian country under control.

Rostow said "the best military and civilian minds in the government are now tackling the problem of 'subversion and guerrilla warfare on which the international Communist movement places such high hopes for the 1960s.'"

Situation in Korea Is Still Spooky

By CONRAD FINK

NEAR THE IMJIN RIVER, South Korea (AP)—"Halt!" The command cut through the night, echoing into the valley where U.S. troops and Communists confront each other across the Korean armistice line.

Behind the command was an 18-year old American who wondered if the noise he heard was a deer, an inspecting officer from his unit—or a Communist North Korean trying to kill him.

Pfc. Ronald Hanson, San Bernardino, Calif., tough and cockily aware of it, was on guard at a forward position on the United Nations front facing North Korea.

"Who goes there?" he challenged.

This time it was Capt. James Patterson, Lexington, Mass. Man son's superior and commander of C Troop, 1st Reconnaissance Squadron, 1st Cavalry Division.

Patterson is young, too—just 31. He has 10 years of Army experience and the mark of a good commander.

He is fond of prowling through the predawn mists that cloak Korea's mountains to check outposts manned by some of his 140 men.

Hanson's small unit is expendable, militarily speaking. It fronts on the demilitarized zone, a strip of neutralized no man's land stretching across Korea. The Imjin River is at the squadron's back. The men admit their position would be untenable in a shooting war. Their primary mission, they say, is to report all enemy activity across the zone and, if fighting breaks out, hold long enough to give rear elements time to man their battle positions.

"We play it cool up here," Hanson said later, "because we never know when Joe will jump."

Joe is GI slang for North Korea. The squadron holds the middle of Kaeson Corridor, ancient invasion route used by the Communists in 1950 when they opened the Korean War with a southward offensive that rolled through Seoul and swept to Pusan at the southern end of the Korean peninsula.

Shortly after dusk each night, small patrols armed with rifles, pistols and flares move through the demilitarized zone, through paths that are separated by only one strand of barbed wire from North Korea. Under the 1953 armistice, the squadron can have 100 men in the zone at one time. Often they meet Communist patrols.

"It's kinda spooky," said Sgt. Charles R. Higgs, Sacramento, Ky. "But it's serious business."

Shootings Leave One Negro Dead

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—One Negro was killed and two wounded in separate shootings in Pulaski County Sunday night.

Police said Louches Bealer, 33, was killed by a pistol shot during an argument at a drive-in. Elvius Banks, 54, a Negro of Little Rock, is being held on an open charge, police said.

Officers said Banks told them the shooting stemmed from a family dispute between his daughter and Bealer's brother, who are man and wife.

Altha Lee Bryant, 43, of Woodson, was critically injured and Maudine Mosley, 23, also of Woodson, struck in the leg by bullets fired at a tavern in Woodson, police said.

The Bryant woman was listed in critical condition with a chest wound.

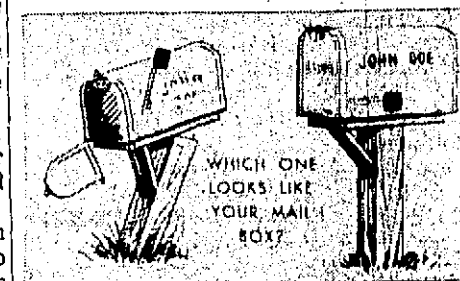

Police said they are holding Arthur James Stewart of Woodson on an open charge in connection with the latter shooting. Stewart was arrested at Dumas, police said.

Seniors Asked If They Measure Up

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Dr. Garland Godfrey, president of Central State College in Oklahoma, asked Arkansas Tech's 203 graduating seniors Sunday to determine if they "measured up as educated men and women."

Godfrey, principal speaker at commencement exercises at the college, said, "A man may claim to be reasonably well educated if he can entertain a new idea, entertain another person and entertain himself."

Prior to his address the retirements of Isham W. Dillaha, associate professor of physics and John Buerkle, plant engineer, were announced by J. W. Hull, president.

Dillaha joined the Tech faculty in 1945. Buerkle came to the school in 1921.

Escapees May Be in Arkansas

ARKANSAS CITY, Ark. (AP)—Four armed escapees from Parchman Prison in Parchman, Miss., may have slipped across the Mississippi River into Arkansas Sunday night, Desha County Sheriff Earl May said today.

May said the four men attacked a deputy sheriff in Benoit, Miss., and took a pistol from him. The sheriff said they also forced a Negro family to provide food for them, and took another pistol there.

May identified the men as Clinton Kilgore, 27, Albert Leppard, 26, Marvin Jackson, 19 and Floyd Sapp, 30. He said their hometowns were not immediately available. May said they escaped from Parchman prison last week, taking two rifles with them.

Skill Is Needed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller said here Saturday night that America is growing so fast and manpower is so limited, the skill of everyone, including the disabled, is needed. Rockefeller spoke to the state convention of the Arkansas Department of the Disabled American Veterans.

convention Sunday.

She said she had personally polled each state president.

Mrs. Jenkins said the District of Columbia and the European Congress (composed primarily of American military personnel) also back the national stand, and Oklahoma and Virginia support it with reservations.

Some of the other state units, she said, haven't taken action.

Mrs. Jenkins said the National Congress believes some form of federal aid to education is necessary and justifiable providing local and state control of education is assured; federal funds are used for public, tax-supported schools only, the federal funds are distributed to state departments of education and become state funds, and that the federal funds support but do not substitute for state funds.

Mrs. Jenkins also said federal control of education is inevitable unless the state and local communities make much greater effort to improve their schools.

State PTA Wants U. S. School Aid

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, say 3 state PTAs, including Arkansas, have indicated full support of the national group's stand in favor of limited federal aid to education.

Mrs. Clifford N. Jenkins of Roselyn Heights, N.Y., said there have been published reports recently that the National Congress does not accurately reflect the views of the state bodies.

"These stories are wrong, and I can prove it," she said in an interview at the opening of the National Congress' 65th annual

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Played Role of Mother

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: My husband and I were married 12 years when I found out about the other woman. His excuse was, "She makes me feel like a man." Well, if the truth were told, he made me feel like his mother.

I blame his parents. They went with us on our honeymoon, insisted we spend our vacations at the old family home, and when we finally moved to another town (I engineered that), followed us.

They never gave my husband a chance to grow up. It became a question of whether I or they would run our marriage. For the sake of our little son and daughter, I took charge. After that, no matter what crisis arose in the home, family or business, I had to make the decisions. My husband played the role of adolescent and I, that of his mother.

Then the other woman appeared. But even in that trying situation, my husband sought consolation from me, as a son might his mother. There were partings and reconciliations and finally, a divorce.

I sold the house, moved to another city and found a job. My sister cares for the children, now 8 and 6 years old. It's not easy, but we have adjusted. Their father sees them weekends. They love him. But he still treats me as a mother; talks over problems and seeks my advice.

His most difficult problem is this prolonged affair with the other woman. Her husband refuses to divorce and threatens to kill them both if they continue together. The situation is indeed tense. Here that old "mother" instinct slurs in me. Should I remarry him and thus avert a possible tragedy or seek the happiness I have missed? I long to be a real wife: one who is loved, protected and cared for.

My divorce became final a month ago. Shortly after I met a man who was every bit a man; strong, masterful and courageous. He too had an unfortunate marriage. What with this and other experiences in common, we seem meant for one another. Last evening my ex-husband came with his tale of woe. Tonight when I came home from work, a box of red roses and a love letter from the other man awaited me. In the letter he asked me to marry him. What shall I do? —M.

Dear M: On general principles, it's a great mistake to turn back. You have borne your cross. Look to the future, not the past. Let your former husband work out his own salvation. He has been over-protected, first by his parents, then you. Only by making his own decisions can he mature. The main issues as I see them are: do you love this other man and will he be a good father to your children? What is his reaction to him? Take time to resolve these questions satisfactorily before you you commit yourself.

Dear Helen: I am eager to try my unproven hand at the "confession" market and therefore have begun saving your cases as inspirational starters. I'd like to get my dream kids off to market. Incidentally, I love the "horso sense" so evident in your evaluation of the problem sent to you; you leave me with the impression you enjoy serving people — J.M.C.

Dear J.M.C.: Aim for the stars. Create your own pattern. Instead of fitting your cloth to the confessional market, tell the story rather sees them weekends. They love him. But he still treats me as a mother; talks over problems and seeks my advice.

We are organized at our house (or at least the children are) In a way that union leaders would consider up to par; For the one who changed the baby wouldn't deign to walk the pup, And the one who set the table wouldn't think of cleaning up. Any order that is given to the gathering-at-large is immediately relayed to the "specialist" in charge, And this labor distribution is a very rigid thing . . . That disintegrates completely if the telephone should ring.

Write, write, write. Practice, practice, practice—and don't be discouraged by rejection slips! Send a stamped-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "So You Want to Write."

Dear Helen: My six children by a former marriage get on my present husband's nerves, especially the girls. The elder, a 29-year-old divorcee likes a good time. The younger is 24 and has two darling little girls. My husband loves the babies but is hard on my daughters. When they go dancing, he locks them out. I realize we are a worry and expense, but we all do all we can to help. The boys work and so do the girls. I work too and take care of household expenses but still he gripes and growls. Trouble is, I love them all, including him. —Desperate

Dear Desperate: Those daughters should be in homes of their own. At the risk of being a hump of a single string, I repeat what I've said again and again: two generations under the same roof spell trouble; doubly so when the head of the house is an elderly stepfather. How about your daughters sharing an apartment in the neighborhood? You might still keep the little girls to help out their mother.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Stepchildren."

Faubus Fails to Talk Politics

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus shied away from politics at Russellville Saturday, where he was a speaker at an Armed Forces Day program.

Faubus recounted his World War II experiences for about 2,000 persons who attended the program.

"The 217th Engineer Battalion, a Russellville National Guard Unit, participated with troops from the 100th Division of Ft. Chaffee in a fireproof demonstration.

Faubus is scheduled to speak at the dedication of the Perryville National Guard Armory Monday.

One For My Dame

By JACK WEBB

Chapter 20

I turned away from her and moved into the shadows. When I came back I had three of the larger wreaths of artificial flowers. I tied them to the end of the cable. "You'll be more sensational than Peter Pan."

"Please, Rick, even if I get down..."

"You'll get down and we'll find a cop, and there'll be enough of them looking for both of us."

"Rick, I can't. Father..."

"Your father's dead," I cut in on her savagely.

"Dead!" She made a grab for me. We both held onto each other.

"They killed him," I told her. "That's when I got caught. I went out to your house to see him. He was there all alone."

"Alone!"

"That's right. He said he had arranged it that way—no police, no FBI, no reporters, no anybody. At least that's what he both thought, until he started to tell me what this whole mess was all about. That... That's when it happened, Carla, all at once. He never knew..."

We were both shaking.

"Carla," I said desperately, "we've got to get out of here. There's no time for talking, or tears. You, me, we don't mean a thing to them. Nothing but whatever you took from them that they want back. If they get it we've outlived our usefulness. If they don't..."

I shrugged.

"Father," Carla whispered. She was not speaking to me.

"You cut that out," I told her. I got the wreaths up around her waist. There they had to stop. "Climb onto the window. Hold onto the sill until you get over the side. Then grab the cable, one hand at a time. I'll let you down as easy as I can."

She obeyed me numbly, not saying anything. I helped her through the window. I began to let it out an arm's length at a time. It lasted forever. It broke my back. Then the weight was gone, so suddenly I stumbled backward.

I threw the rest of the slack out the window and climbed out after it. I glanced at the end of the coffin to which I had secured my lifeline and then took off for earth. I went a lot faster and hit a lot harder than Carla had.

I got Carla out of her floral display and went across the driveway hand in hand.

We were past the poplars and on the greensward, circling the first lily pool toward the friendly shadows of the shrubbery, when the car swung off Vandevere and along the curve of drive leading to the front door of the building. Because of the curve of drive the beam of its headlights caught us on stage. Man and maid, traipsing across the green...

The big sedan was as black as a hearse and almost as long. The driver slammed on the brakes. Then that big gorilla, Vito, slid out from under the wheel and came around the hood. At the same time the Profak brothers were pushing out of the back door. Everybody seemed to have a gun.

"Come on," I said to Carla. I took a firm grip on her hand and began to run. She started to scamper, then suddenly her hand was jerked from mine and I thought she had stumbled. I swung to help her to her feet and saw that she had not fallen but was running back toward the thundering herd.

"Run, Rick, run," she cried and I saw her move away from me and tear my heart in two, in the one long instant before I turned and did as I was told.

I forgot all about skidding the lily pond, jumped in and staggered through the three-foot-deep water for the two yards across it.

A shot whistled past my ear, and then close on the single explosion I heard one of the parners swear and tell Vito to stop shooting. I plunged into a clump of bamboo. Slaying in their shadow. I crossed a stretch of lawn and went down on my knees to crawl into a clump of junipers.

One of the brothers was dragging Carla up the steps of the mortuary.

The other brother had reached the edge of the pond. Vito was moving fast to get to the bridge that crossed the stream between the first pond and the second.

"Mr. Jackson," said the second Profak, "we have Carla DiMucci. Give yourself up, Mr. Jackson. Even if you are so foolish as not to take my advice—hear this. Any story you tell the police will not be believed. Any story you take to the police will mean that no one will ever see Carla again. I repeat, no one, Mr. Jackson."

Vito had crossed the bridge now and was getting close. I lay still and held my breath. Everything Profak had said was true. Carla DiMucci had given up her chance of freedom to gain me time.

For a big man Vito moved with amazing quiet. He went by me slowly, catfooted, cautious, not like a gorilla at all. He was circling the bamboos into which I had disappeared.

Mercury Check Is Underway

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Technicians checked Aurora 7, the Mercury spacecraft of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter, and its Atlas launching rocket in detail today.

If they find no more "bugs" in capsule or missile—if the weather holds—if other factors all are favorable, then the Aurora 7 combination will blast off next Thursday between 7 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

A successful launch would fling Carpenter into the same type of 100-mile high, three-orbit flight that Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. made Feb. 20—but with several new experiments to be performed.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration had planned last week to launch Aurora 7 Tuesday. Discovery of a possible defect in an electrical device that keeps the Atlas flight control system from freezing up forced a postponement of at least two days.

Carpenter's backup pilot is Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr.

Injuries Fatal to Aged Woman

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. Emma Minard, 84, died Sunday night in a Little Rock hospital from injuries received here May 12 when she was struck by a car on U.S. Highway 17.

Police said Mrs. Minard was struck by a car driven by J. W. Roach of Batesville.

Her death was the second to occur this month on the heavily traveled road. Early in May Sandra Dean Hughes, 5, was struck and killed by a car driven by Windred Brewer, police said.

Police said no charges were filed in either accident.

Davis Again Gets Job Done Against Giants

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Target: Destroy the most effective equipment used against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Weapon: Tommy Davis, who slays Giants and leads on left handers.

Final Objective: The National League pennant.

That could well be the story of the Dodgers' pennant chances. Executing his assignment with precision in the 23 year old Davis who Monday night paced third place Los Angeles to an 8-1 triumph over league-leading San Francisco.

Charged with the task of providing right-handed power in a lineup that relies on getting most of its long distance hits from left-handed swingers, Davis got the job done against the Giants with a 3-for-3 performance that backed Sandy Koufax' five-hit pitching.

Davis, who led the club against southpaws last year with a .352 batting average, wasted a double in the second, then got the Dodgers rolling with a two-run homer in the fourth, made it 3-0 with a run-scoring double in the sixth and wound up with a walk in a five-run eighth.

That gave Davis seven hits in 12 at-bats against the Giants this year and nine runs batted in for the three games with San Francisco. It also boosted his average to .311 and gave him nine homers and 38 RBI—second highest in the league.

The defeat left the Giants 2½ games in front of the Dodgers and the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals, who ran their winning streak to five games with a 4-1 victory over Philadelphia. Pittsburgh belted Chicago's Cubs 4-1 and Houston edged New York's Mets 3-2 in other games. Cincinnati and Milwaukee were rained out.

In the American League, Cleveland moved into first place by whipping Baltimore 10-7. Minnesota downed Washington 5-3. Detroit defeated the Chicago White Sox 7-3 and Kansas City thumped Boston 10-5. New York and Los Angeles were not scheduled.

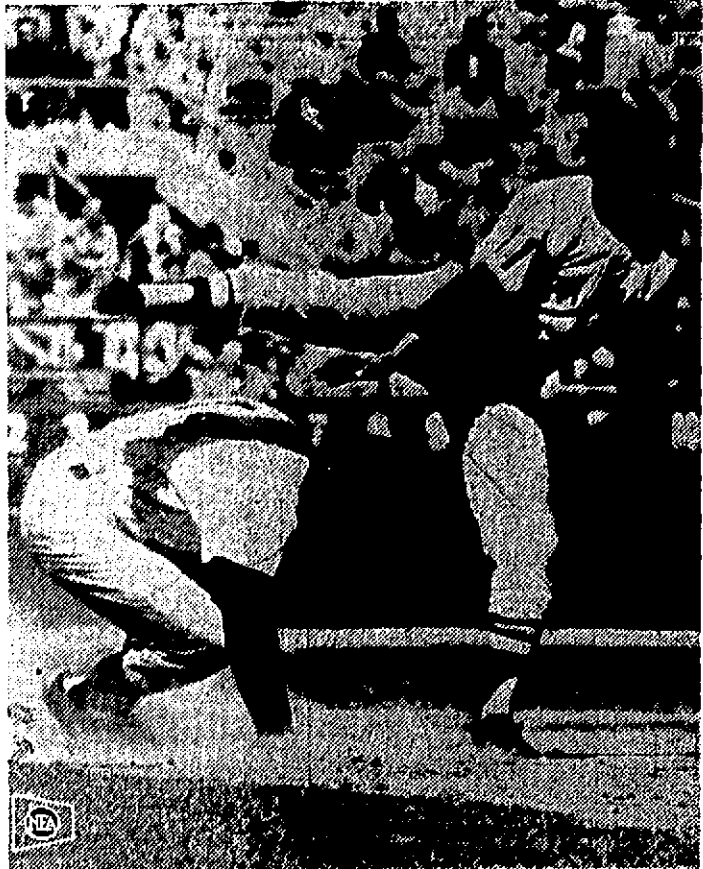

Davis, who was hitting .314 last year when sidelined by a bad back and wound up at .270, homered off Billy O'Dell (5-2) after Willie Davis singled with one out in the fourth. His double in the sixth boosted the edge to 3-0 before Orlando Cepeda got the Giants' lone run with his 12th homer, leading off the seventh.

The Dodgers broke it open with five runs in the eighth after O'Dell was removed for a pinch hitter. Koufax (5-2) had the Giants well in control, walking only one and striking out 10 for his first victory since April 28.

Ray Washburn (3-0), who came on when starter Ernie Broglio pulled a leg muscle in the second inning, and Bobby Shantz limited the Phillies to five hits in the final eight innings. Shantz pulled Washburn out of a two-on, one-out jam in the eighth inning by getting Tony Gonzalez to line back to the mound for the start of a double play. The Cardinals' runs were taken care of by Bill White's two-run homer and a two-run single by Curt Flood. That tagged Dennis Bennett (0-1) with the loss.

Dick Groat, hitting in his 13th consecutive game, and Bill Virdon each stroked four hits and picked up three runs batted in as the Pirates rapped out 13 hits to subdue the Cubs. Groat's single in the fifth inning drove in Virdon, who had doubled, with the run that proved to be the clincher. Reliever Tom Sturdivant (2-1) held the Cubs scoreless over the final 1-3 innings to post the victory. Dick Ellsworth (3-5) was the loser.

Jim Ponder's pinch-hit triple leading off the eighth inning and a sacrifice fly by Roman Mejias got the winning run across for the Colts and ended the Mets winning streak at three games. The victory moved Houston into eighth place, three percentage points

SWING IT—Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox swings his leg over Bill Skowron at Yankee Stadium as the burly first baseman comes barging into second base on a force play. Cletis Boyer hit to Nellie Fox, who tossed to Aparicio. The shortstop could not complete a double play.

Judge Rules Against New Football Loop

BALTIMORE (AP) — U.S. District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen ruled today that the fledgling American Football League was not entitled to any damages because the National Football League expanded from 12 to 14 teams.

The judge found that members of the 32-year-old NFL had not conspired to monopolize professional football by granting new franchises in Dallas and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

He ruled therefore that neither the AFL nor any of its members was entitled to monetary relief. The AFL had sued the NFL and 11 of its members as individuals for a total of $10,000,000 under the antitrust laws.

Romano Has the Indians in Loop Lead

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Clutch-hitting John Romano and a guy on a hot streak named Chuck Essegian are two prime reasons why Cleveland's surprising Indians hold undisputed possession of the American League lead.

These two led the way Monday night as the Indians overcame Baltimore 10-7 in a thriller and took first place all alone by a half-game over the idle New York Yankees.

Romano supplied most of the muscle—and the ultimate drama—with a pair of run-scoring doubles and the three-run home with two out in the ninth inning that won it.

Essegian, on a torrid tear that has zoomed him to the top among the league's hitters with a .402 average, rode in on both of Romano's doubles and was on base when the sturdy catcher connected for the clincher.

Minnesota climbed to within 11 percentage points of the Yankees with a 5-3 victory over Washington behind Camilo Pascual's pitching and hitting talents; another good hitting pitcher, Jerry Walker, paced Kansas City as the A's dealt Boston its seventh straight loss, 10-5; and Detroit ran off from Chicago 7-3. Los Angeles was idle.

In the National League the Los Angeles Dodgers pushed across five runs in the eighth inning and swamped first-place San Francisco 8-1. St. Louis whipped Philadelphia 4-1. Pittsburgh beat Chicago 8-4; and Houston tipped New York 3-2. Cincinnati and the Braves were rained out at Milwaukee.

The Indians pounded Skinny Brown for a 7-0 lead in the first three innings but the Orioles came back, getting a pair of homers from Jackie Brandt, one from Jim Gentile and a two-run triple by Brooks Robinson. Jim (Mudcat) Grant finally was routed in Baltimore's fourth-inning sixth and Russ Snyder evened it at 7-7 with a homer off Barry Latman in the eighth.

Winner Garry Bell struck out the side in the top of the ninth, then the Tribe settled it against southpaw Billy Hoelt, the fifth Oriole pitcher. Willie Tasby got on with a walk. Essegian rapped his third single of the night, and Romano drilled one into the seats.

Essegian, the former Stanford football star who has been on six major league clubs and 11 minor league teams in his 10 pro seasons, is the current standout of Cleveland's outfield platoon. He has been zipping along at a 500 pace his past nine games, with 17 hits in 34 at-bats.

Romano's five runs batted in gives him 26 for the season, tops for the Indians. His three hits, raised his average to .299.

Pascual pitched an eight-hitter for his sixth victory in eight decisions, singled across the clincher for the Twins in the seventh and batted across an insurance run in the eighth with another single. The Cuban right-hander is hitting a solid .323 with 10 RBI to his credit.

Harmon Killebrew socked his ninth homer off loser Dave Stenhouse, while Minnesota rookie Bernie Allen doubled twice and singled.

Walker yielded 11 singles, a homer to Eddie Bressoud and four walks to the reeling Red Sox but the A's still coasted in. They took the lead for good in the fourth on Jose Aceue's homer and Jerry Lumpe's two-run double.

Walker, now 5-2, banged his third homer of the year and a single, boosting his average to .346, and scored three times. Lumpe accounted for three more of Kansas City's 14 hits. Gene Conley took the loss.

Rocky Colavito and Chico Fernandez bombed Early Wynn for homers as the Tigers chased the 42-year-old right-hander with a five-run first inning on the way to their decision over the White Sox.
